Bias Statement

The CARE Project (TCP) supports all decisions made by parents/families. TCP does not prescribe to one single philosophy, communication modality or technology. Giving emotional support, information, education and skills is first and foremost the focus of TCP.

Therefore, it is required by TCP that all volunteers and speakers for TCP Retreat experiences refrain from sharing personal opinions and biases regarding the topics: communication modality, technology, educational setting and/or philosophy. TCP strives to create a safe and comfortable environment during the retreat experiences to allow families to process their emotions, meet new families, connect and bond. The retreats focus on the one thing all the attendee families have in common: having a child who is deaf or hard of hearing.

Please sign below that you, as a volunteer and/or speaker, have read this policy statement and agree to adhere to it during the retreat experience for which you are involved.

Thank you for understanding TCP's desire to create a stress-free environment for the families who join us for TCP Family Retreats!
